

I use cartoons and characters as a means of communication and find that a wider audience can be drawn into a topic by this drawing method. Here I have created characters for a computer game in preparation for animation and action.

