

Being able to let go of past events and move on in life is essential. We must learn to cross the divide from the past and begin to focus on the present and the future.

