Overnewton is no longer an ‘emerging’ school. We are well established and well recognised, and we have built some great foundations in our facilities, our staff and our curriculum. But we need to make sure we continue to strengthen that base and lay plans for the future, which will underpin continued growth and development.

In 2014, much of the Board’s work centred on gathering valuable information from which to formulate our strategies for the medium to long term future. This has, among other things, included securing the services of one of Australia’s leading educational demographers to help us identify shifts in our market and the areas we need to focus on for future growth and security.

A Parent Survey was also conducted to help us gauge the attitudes and ideas of the people who know Overnewton best – our current families. The views, ideas and suggestions resulting from this survey have all been considered in our planning for 2015 and beyond.
